21ST ANNUAL EASTER SERVICE AT MT. HELIX

More than 15,000 will greet the dawn at the 21st annual Mt. Helix Easter Sunrise Service atop Mt. Helix east of La Mesa on the morning of April 17, it was announced by Richard H. Smith, general chairman of the nationally known event. The service will start at 5.30 a. m.

A special bus service will be operated from San Dieo and a large corps of state police under direction of Capt. Otto Langer will be in charge of traffic.

Indicative of the importance of the affair the Natonal Broadcast Company has selected the Mt. Helix service as representative sunrise ceremony of the Pacific coast over its entire chain, Smith said. The proram will be released over KFSD starting at 5:30 a. m.

A feature of this year's program will be the world premiere of a sacred composition by Charles Wakefield Cadman, nationally famous composer, entitled "Resurrection". This song will be sung by Marie Link Elmore, dramatic soprano with Jamie Erickson at the orgatron and the composer at the piano.

The program also will feature the San Diego Symphony orchestra under the baton of Maestro Julius Leib, and sacred selections by the 110 voice mixed Easter Chorus of the San Diego high school under direction of W. F. Reyer with Mrs. Reyer as accompanist.

The Easter sermon will be given by Dr. Edward R. Elson, pastor, La Jolla Presbyterian church and Moderator of the Presbytery of Los Angeles.

POISONERS STILL CONTINUE UNMERCIFUL OPERATIONS

Two more dogs were in a critical conditon this week from poison which has not as yet been traced.

Drastic measures will have to be taken in the very near future if animales r even children are to be safe from the person or persons who have been setting out poison throughout Lakeside.

Citizens of Lakeside are urged to notify authorities immediately if anyone is seen loitering around homes late at night or early morning.

It is hoped that the culprit who has caused such serious trouble will soon be brought to justice.

CORRECTION

The Book Club which was to meet at the home of Mrs. Hayes next Wednesday will meet at the home of Mrs. W. A. Meyer of Lakeside.

WATER FILLS LINDO LAKE

Last Saturday morning the city of San Diego began releasing a surplus of water from El Capitan and is transfering the water into the Lindo Lake as they had recently offered to do if the delivery of water did not result in a loss of water to the city.

Fred C. Pyle, Hydraulic Engineer, stated that this water from the Dam would most likely continue to flow into the lake until (1) The Dam level drops below the spillway lip, (2) The water is found to be escaping from the lake or (3) until the lake is filled. By the looks of the lake at the present time it won't be long now until the water will be overflowing its banks.

All Lakesiders are pleased to see their one time attractiive lake resuming its natural beauty. They are grateful indeed, to the city for granting them the request of filling the lake.

MRS. JESSIE COLLINS ENTERTAINS TAWASI MEMBERS

Mrs. Jessie Collins was hostess Wednesday afternoon at a party held at her home for member of the Tawasi Club.

JOHN ROCCHIO HAS ACCIDENT

John Rocchio of the Lakeside Pharmacy met with a slight accident on the road to Barona Wednesday morning. The accident occurred when the brakes on the car locked as the pharmist slowed down for a curve.

The fourth weekly meeting of the Merchants Round Up was held Tuesday evening in the office of the Lakeside Farmer.

A unique method of rounding up the merchants for this meeting was tried, for the first time, and proved most successful. It consisted of a broadcasting system placed in front of the Farmer office, and whch can be heard for miles around. With the largest attendance ever to turn out, it is believed that this method of summoning the merchants will be used from now on.

Several items concerning the program for the Round Up were discussed and decided on by the various members.

LAKESIDE P. T. A. MEETS

At the regular monthly meeting of the Lakeside P. T. A. Tuesday evening the officers elected to serve for the coming year were installed by Mrs. Len Kasitz. SEEN and HEARD around the NATIONAL CAPITAL

By Carter Field

Washington.—In considering the new naval appropriations it must be remembered that this billion-dollar program, as it is called, is in addition to the regular 1939 program, which had already been provided. Besides, it is in addition to new building now going on but authorized previously.

For instance, two battleships, totaling 70,000 tons, are now under construction. Two more of 35,000 tons each, are in the so-called regular 1939 program. But three more with 105,000 tons additional tonnage, are in the so-called billion-dollar program. This makes the total additional tonnage to be eventually added to the present United States navy 245,000 tons!

Incidentally even this may be boosted. The navy had been figuring on still bigger ships, and may get an amendment in before the keels are laid, which would make the tonnage of each of the three battleships provided in the new billion-dollar program as much as 43,000 tons. Which, if it happens, as it probably will, would make the boost, in battleships alone, 269,000 tons.

No new aircraft carriers were provided for in the regular 1939 program. But there are two now building, with a total tonnage of 34,000. In the billion-dollar program two more, with 30,000 total tonnage, are added, making four new carriers and a total of 64,000 tons to be added to the navy.

Eight cruisers are now under construction, totaling 80,000 tons. The regular 1939 program added two, totaling 10,000 tons, but the billion-dollar program adds nine more, with 68,754 tons additional. Thirty-six destroyers are under way, with a total of 56,200 tons. The regular 1939 program added eight more, with a total of 12,000 additional tons. Along comes the billion-dollar program with 23 more, adding 38,000 tons.

Needs New Destroyers

So no less than 67 destroyers are to be added to the navy!

This is not so surprising when one considers the history of destroyers in the American navy. At the time of the World war this was one type of vessel which could be rushed to completion with some hope that they would be finished before the war ended. Moreover, the destroyer was considered one of the most effective agencies with which to fight submarines, at the time the chief danger to the Allies.

So America rushed out destroyers. The end of the war found the navy with more destroyers than it knew what to do with. Most of them were tied up, their parts greased, and kept in storage, so to speak. As a result there was not much destroyer building, especially as the armament limitation conference came along in 1922.

But naturally these have all grown obsolete together. So the navy really needs a new fleet of destroyers.

Now under construction also is one destroyer tender, of 9,450 tons. The billion-dollar program adds five more, with a total of 45,000 tons. It also adds four seaplane tenders, with a total of 33,200 tons to the one authorized previously, at 8,800 tons.

In the regular 1939 program the navy got an oiler of 8,000 tons, a mine sweeper of 600 tons, and a fleet tug of 1,150 tons. To these will be added three repair ships, totaling 28,500 tons, in the billion-dollar program.

Chinese Get a Hunch

A Chinese commerce raider, aimed at accomplishing against Japanese commerce what the famous Confederate privateer Alabama did to United States shipping during the war between the states, is under serious consideration. Officially this will be denied, of course, but several factors in the Alabama situation are being studied by those interested.

The Alabama, it will be recalled, was fitted out in England, and had a very long and effective adventure in destruction before she was finally sunk by the U. S. S. Kearsarge off Cherbourg.

The present idea is said to have originated due to publicity for the grievance of American fishermen and the salmon industry generally in the Pacific Northwest and Alaska. In fact, the germ of the idea is said to have been sprouted when an indignant union leader wanted to know why the United States couldn't have an "accident" similar to the sinking of the Panay by Japanese, and then be very, very "sorry" in a note to Japan.

"If," he added grimly, "Japan ever heard about it."

A shrewd Chinese official is said to have read this, and then remembered the Alabama episode.

"If the British could fit out a privateer for the Confederates back in the sixties," he is said to have reasoned, "why could not the United States fit out a warship—just a little gunboat or an obsolete destroyer maybe—for the Chinese?"

Vigorously denying that anything of the kind would be tolerated, an official pointed out the rigidity of the neutrality laws, and the President's proclamation so recently restated by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, and then slyly added:

That's Different

"Of course, if the Chinese should succeed in doing anything of the sort from any other country's ports, it would be none of our business. Virtually we have recognized a state of belligerency, and even if Japan should argue that the commerce raider was in truth a pirate, it seems to me we have been bothered, in the very recent past, with so called pirate submarines in the Mediterranean."

"I don't think such a thing would annoy the Russians any," another official commented slyly. "It just might be that they would lend a little help."

This last, so far as is known here, is not in the picture at all, though use of adventuresome young Americans is said to be distinctly a part of it. For the scheme, the Chinese would need men experienced in handling small naval guns, though they need not be anything like as expert in their line as the American aviators already aiding the Chinese.

The idea of a submarine, it is said, has been considered but reluctantly abandoned. Unless the Russians would actually supply an experienced crew, it was considered impossible, it is understood, to obtain men capable of operating such a craft, even assuming the Chinese could get possession of an undersea boat.

But even a little gunboat, it is contended, could cause Japanese commerce a lot of grief before it was finally run down.

Reorganization

President Roosevelt has succeeded better than any but the most optimistic of his advisers had dreamed, a couple of months back, in his drive for reorganization of the government. It is due to one of those strange political factors, and is directly connected with the President's technical defeat on the Supreme court enlargement battle.

Unfortunately for those who disagree with the President on his reorganization proposals — and privately the measure has very few friends even among the most loyal administration Democrats on Capitol hill—the men who took the leadership in the fight to hamstring it were the same men who led the fight against packing the Supreme court.

At first blush this might appear an advantage. They were the victors in that more spectacular battle. Victory should be like a snowball, growing as it rolls. As with Napoleon up until Russia. As with Hitler up until heaven knows when.

But this is politics, not war, and while there are some similarities, there are some sharp differences. Any fight on Capitol Hill can be won only with the aid of a very large number of Democrats, men who are elected by the Democratic organizations back in their states. It so happens that the Democrats have almost unprecedented majorities in both house and senate.

Now a Democratic senator, figuring both on his renomination and re-election fight, has to walk carefully.

Watch Their Step

A great many of the senators who made the victory of the anti-court packing leaders possible were not so spectacular as Sen. Burton K. Wheeler in that fight. Now they are unwilling to side with Wheeler again, lest to them be attributed all the hostility to the administration that is connected with Senator Wheeler's motives.

In short, if there had been no court fight, the President would have less strength in his present fight to win more power for the chief executive in the conduct of the government.

Beyond the shadow of a doubt, had there been no court fight, Senator Wheeler's amendment, which would have required the approval of congress to any change in the government the President might make, would have carried instead of losing by a vote so close that the change of three senators would have reversed it.

Had there been no court fight, the amendment of Sen. David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, to exempt the civil service commission from the President's dictatorial powers would have prevailed instead of being defeated. But Walsh, too, had some prominence in the anti-court packing fight. The Bay State senator is not afraid of being branded. He knows his state pretty well, and has never been accused of political stupidity. But others, lacking his grip on their states, also lack his courage, however they may agree with him on this issue down in their hearts.

"REFORM" BILL PASSED

Measure Giving President Vast Powers Squeezes Through Senate . . . May Die in House

Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, chairman of the senate finance committee, is here seen telling members of the press what his committee had done and proposed to do to the revenue measure so that it would be less objectionable to business and to the country in general. It already had made radical changes in the bill as it was passed by the house.

Wide Powers for President

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S reorganization bill squeezed through the senate by the close vote of 49 to 42, after a fierce fight. A motion to recommit, which would have virtually killed the measure, was defeated by a vote of 48 to 43.

Opponents of this bill are convinced that it paves the way for a dictatorship in the United States.

The measure was sent on to the house, which already has passed bills covering some of its features. There is no certainty, however, that the senate measure will ever be brought to a vote in the house. Chairman O'Connor of the rules committee said it should be allowed to slumber peacefully in some pigeonhole.

The bill authorizes the President, by executive order, to transfer, regroup, co-ordinate, consolidate, segregate the whole or any part of or abolish any of the 135 bureaus, agencies, and divisions of government.

Excepted from this section, however, are the federal reserve board, the corps of engineers of the United States army and the independent, quasi-judicial and regulatory establishments, such as the board of tax appeals, the communications commission, the federal trade commission, the interstate commerce commission, and the national labor relations board.

It abolishes the civil service commission as now constituted, and the general accounting office. It creates a new "department of welfare," and it authorizes six more $10,000 a year assistants to the President.

Ten Men to Probe TVA

FIVE senators and five representatives will do the investigating of the Tennessee Valley authority, for the resolution for a joint committee inquiry was adopted by the senate without a dissenting vote, and appeared certain of passage by the house. The resolution was introduced by Sen. Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, majority leader. It calls for investigation of charges of malfeasance and dishonesty made by the ousted chairman, A. E. Morgan, and includes eight of the twenty-three charges originally made by Senators Bridges and King in their first resolution for a congressional inquiry. It also calls for a "fishing expedition" into the activities of private utility companies and their injunction suits against the TVA.

Sen. Bridges

Sen. H. Styles Bridges, the New Hampshire Republican, in a radio debate declared the administration was trying to obscure the charges of scandal within the TVA by forcing the inquiry to cover the private utility angle. "The administration's strategy has been to cover up TVA dirt by a phoney counter-attack," he said.

He was answered vigorously by Sen. Lister B. Hill of Alabama.

Legality of President Roosevelt's action in ousting Chairman Morgan from the TVA board is still a matter that the courts probably will be called on to settle. Mr. Roosevelt "removed" Morgan after receiving from Acting Attorney General Jackson an opinion that he possessed the required authority. He reported the action to congress and said he had named Harcourt Morgan chairman.

Reasons for the removal of A. E. Morgan as given by the President were that he had made grave and libelous charges against his colleagues and refused to substantiate them at the White House hearings, and that he had obstructed the work of the authority.

Utilities Must Register

IN A 6 to 1 decision, the United States Supreme court upheld the registration provisions of the Wheeler-Rayburn public utility act of 1935, but did not pass on the constitutionality of other parts of the law, including the death sentence for holding companies.

The court sustained an order of the New York Federal District court requiring the Electric Bond and Share company and 14 associated utility holding companies to register with the Securities and Exchange commissioin or else be denied the use of the mails and other facilities of interstate commerce.

Chief Justice Hughes delivered the court's opinion. Justice McReynolds, who wrote no opinion, was the only dissenter. Justice Cardozo, who is ill, and Justice Reed took no part in the consideration of the case.

Colonel House Dies

DEATH after a long illness ended the notable career of Col. Edward M. House, whose name, during the World war era, was familiar to millions. He passed away in New York at the age of seventy-nine years. Shunning publicity and personal glory, House devoted himself untiringly to what he deemed the best interests of his country and for years his influence, especially in international matters, was great. An early supporter of Woodrow Wilson's political fortunes, he became Wilson's trusted adviser after his election to the presidency and continued to help direct his course immediately before and during the war, making frequent trips to Europe. He was Wilson's personal representative in the Versailles peace conference. Later he and Wilson disagreed and their close association came to an end.

Franco in Catalonia

GENERAL FRANCO'S insurgent army blasted its way through the loyalist lines and entered the province of Catalonia, moving far toward Barcelona, the third capital of the government forces. In this rapid advance about 100 towns were captured in a single day and many villages were demolished by bombardment by a fleet of 200 war planes said to have been contributed by Italy and Germany.

Italy warned France that any French intervention in Spain "might compromise peace on the European continent." The organ of the Italian foreign office, Informazione Diplomatica, published the statement, declaring Italy was "following with greatest attention the campaign of French leftists for intervention in Spain."

Silver Buying Halted

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY MORGENTHAU announced that the United States had discontinued the purchase of Mexican silver until further notice. This probably was a direct result of Mexico's expropriation of foreign oil properties, which Secretary of State Hull considers a hard blow to his "good neighbor" policies. Price of silver was cut 1 cent an ounce.

The United States Treasury has been buying 5,000,000 ounces of newly mined Mexican silver each month, paying around $2,500,000 for it at the artificially maintained New York price, which gave Mexico sizable profits.

Japan's Regime in China

JAPAN announced officially the inauguration of the "reformed Government of the Republic of China" in Nanking. This puppet state is intended to replace the regime of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and is headed by Liang Hung-Tze as chairman of the new executive yuan, a position equivalent to premier.

The Chinese were still fighting the invaders desperately along the Peiping-Hankow railway and claimed the Japanese were suffering heavy losses.

Profits Tax Out

PAT HARRISON meant what he said about altering the revenue bill that was passed by the house. His senate finance committee is making the changes. By a vote of 17 to 4 it eliminated from the measure the undistributed profits tax principle, substituting therefor a flat corporation income tax of 18 per cent.

As a further means of stimulating business and investment the committee adopted a provision drastically modifying the capital gains and losses tax. The committee removed capital gains on assets held for more than 18 months from the income tax category and substituted instead a flat rate of 15 per cent, which was what business and industry wanted.

In an effort to clear the way for speedy enactment of the tax relief legislation, the committee rejected a system of processing taxes on wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco, and rice, which the administration desires to finance proposed additional bounties to farmers amounting to $200,000,000 a year.

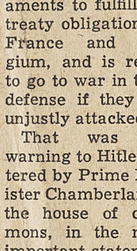
Jews Must Quit Vienna

THERE are 300,000 Jews in Vienna, and all of them must leave that city within four years. This was announced in the Austrian capital by Field Marshal Goering, Hitler's right-hand man, who set forth a program for the economic reconstruction of Austria. He said: "Vienna must again become a German city. No city with 300,000 Jews has a right to call itself a German city. Vienna has to fulfill economic and cultural tasks, and this is impossible with Jews. Therefore, they must leave."



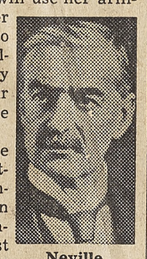
Gen. Goering

Goering said he had intrusted the task of removing the Jews to Seyss-Inquart and that it must be accomplished quietly and mercifully by legal means.

There was great rejoicing throughout Germany when Cardinal Innetzer, archbishop of Vienna, issued a solemn declaration urging the people of Austria, most of whom are Catholics, to vote for the union with Germany at the plebiscite on April 10. The document was read in all Catholic churches. It warmly praised the Nazi rulers and pledged allegiance to Germany. This stand of the Catholic hierarchy made certain an overwhelming victory for Hitler in the plebiscite. It also led the Nazi chiefs to hope for a new accord with the Vatican.

Britain Ready to Fight

GREAT BRITAIN will not flatly pledge herself to fight to save Czechoslovakia from German aggression. But she will use her armaments to fulfill her treaty obligations to France and Belgium, and is ready to go to war in their defense if they are unjustly attacked.



Neville Chamberlain

That was the warning to Hitler uttered by Prime Minister Chamberlain in the house of commons, in the most important statement of British foreign policy since the World war.

Declaring his belief that peace will be maintained, Chamberlain said: "I cannot imagine any events in Europe which would change the fundamental basis of British foreign policy, which is the maintenance and preservation of peace. However, that does not mean that nothing would make us fight."

Cheers greeted this declaration.

Though he said central Europe was not an area where vital British interests are at stake, he gave plain warning that if German aggression should result in war there, Britain might be forced into it.

He flatly turned down Soviet Russia's call for consultation against aggressor nations.

Wheat Crop Estimates

PREDICTION by the bureau of agricultural economics of the Department of Agriculture is that this year's wheat crop will be 830,000,000 bushels, or 160,000,000 bushels in excess of the 1932-36 average. The survey estimates that the wheat carry-over in 1939 will be around 300,000,000 bushels.

The record wheat crop is based on the following factors: If farmers seed the acreage indicated in the prospective-planting report, and if average yields are obtained, this year's spring wheat crop, including durum, will total about 200,000,000 bushels. This, together with the winter crop of about 630,000,000 bushels, indicates a prospective output of 830,000,000 bushels.

Pretty Silk for Her Easter Frock

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

DECK little daughter out in a pretty-pretty dress-up silken gown at the joyous Easter time and note what a radiant outlook it will give her. It will be as refreshing a sight as the flowers that burst into an ecstasy of color at the magic touch of spring to see little girls lilting their way along in the Easter style parade. It seems that silk for dress-up "Sunday-go-to-meeting" frocks has come into its own this spring in childhood's realm, more so than for many seasons past.

Mothers are becoming increasingly alert to the fact that bright colorful well-cut clothes are vastly important in the development of a child's personality. Often it is only a becoming dress that spells the difference between a confident happy child and a timid backward one.

Mothers will find inspiration aplenty as to "how to make" little daughter's Easter frock, in the trio of fashions illustrated, for they came fresh from the designers' hands and are alive with new "ideas." If you prefer to buy your child's frock ready made you will find more daintily fashioned silk models than have been shown for quite some time, but if you are a sew-at-home enthusiast all you have to do to make a dress after the manner of the model shown to the right is to take enough silk (navy printed silk taffeta fashions the gown pictured) to the pleater and the pleater pleats the skirt. Just ask little daughter, she knows!—knows that pleated skirts are very stylish indeed this season. To give the attractive styling to the top part insert puffed details in the sleeves and the bodice as pictured.

As to the little girl centered in the group it is not a case of "all dressed up and no place to go" for her outfit, even to her new wrist watch and the dainty white gloves she carries, unmistakably identifies her as one who will join in the style parade pridefully arrayed in her Easter finery. The dress is made of dainty flower-print silk crepe in delicate lovely colors. There is considerable smocking at the waistline, giving the corselet effect so popular in adult fashions, with simulated yoke effect repeating the smocking. The brim hat is of the same silk print.

Little daughter will look just as if she stepped out of a fashion plate if on Easter she wears a dress of plaid weighted silk taffeta (very smart is taffeta this season). Make the skirt with fan box pleats and grace the neckline with a pleated frill, as you see to the left in the picture. Velvet ribbon is used for the bow at the neck and for about the waist which gives it still another claim as a fashion-first. When in doubt use velvet touches to finish off the dress or the coat you may be making, for as a trimming feature velvet is very important this season.

For children's dresses plain silk crepe in the new charming pastel colors ranks in high favor. These pretty monotone crepes revel in "oodles" of shirring, smocking, fagoting and other handwork detail. The colors available are entrancing.

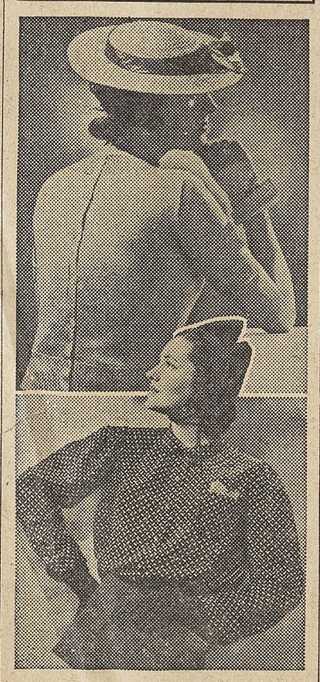
NEW IN THE MODE

By CHERIE NICHOLAS



Silk sweaters in bright colors with the tailored spring suit are important news. A cardigan fine slip-over silk sweater as pictured at the top can be buttoned in back or front. It has a boat neck and short sleeves. The silk knit has a small spaced arrow motif. The rough straw sailor has a bandana trim. The gypsy blouse shown here is in black and white polka dot silk crepe. It has a turnover collar and long full sleeves with turned back cuffs and a red silk chiffon handkerchief in the breast pocket. It is worn with a black silk taffeta upturned sombrero with a chin strap.

TAILORED OUTFITS HERALD OF SPRING

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

The annual blossoming of tailored suits is a surer sign of spring than the appearance of the first crocus. Of course, there are always modifications, and this year they take the form of lower waistlines, higher hemlines, and boxy shoulder details.

In keeping with this vogue, simple shoes are once again highlighted. Gone are the foot-revealing sandals that predominated in last year's spring line.

Shoe trimming details, including simple cut-outs, punchwork, and perforations, are especially significant because of their restraint. This is also true of colors. The blue, red, and copper-hued shoes now slated for style importance are considerably toned down to conform with the note of early spring reserve.

Nursery Rhyme Buttons to Adorn Spring Prints

Little Jack Horner was no more surprised than the fashion snooper is at the new forms of catalin buttons that are now being sewed on prints here, cotton goods there or just fastened to fancy little cards for the home dressmaker. Little Jack Horner happens to be one of the figures into which the catalin has been shaped and he is accompanied by such renowned persons as Old Mother Hubbard and her shoe, Little Red Riding Hood, the Piper's Son, Jack the Giant Killer and Mother Goose, herself, whose rhymes were the inspiration for these new shapes. Colors? Blue, green, orange and red. And, as strange as it seems, (or does it?) more of these buttons are being used on adults' apparel than on infant wear.

According to assistant farm advisor Jean C. Miller this subject is of vital importance, and DeBard's fine presentation of it to the Vista Farm Center warranted his being asked to repeat his talk at the county wide meeting.

DOUBLE TROUBLE

A horse named "Double Trouble" was plenty of trouble for Pat Paddock who bit the dirt for the second consecutive Sunday, at the Rodeo tryouts.

Two weeks ago the bucking horse Pat was riding, tripped and fell knocking the rider out, temporarily. This last Sunday Pat was again knocked out when the saddle horn pounded him in his solar plexis. After the rider hit the ground he was carried about four feet, due to the fact that his unconscious hand grasped the rope so tightly. A stretcher was rushed to the unconscious man, but surprising amazed spectators, he revived sufficiently to walk off unaided.

Regardless of these two accidents on Double Trouble Mr. Paddock must be a glutton for punishment, for he expects to try his luck again this next Sunday.

ONCE IN A LIFE TIME

It is very interesting to read in a neighboring newspaper, a letter from a subscriber, who, in remitting for his paper, took occasion to say a few words of praise for the "home paper," and what its editor was contributing to the welfare of the community in which it is publshed. He said: "May it ever be thus and best of luck to the combined editor, printer, collector, paymaster, fireman, typesetter, office boy, window washer and so many other odd jobs I can't recall them all. All this for the mere pittance you ask in return." Wish there were more like him.

SYNOPSIS

Ruth Chiswick of L C ranch, obsessed by fear of danger to her outspoken father, Lee, from a band of lawless rustlers headed by Sherm Howard, decides to save him by eloping with young Lou Howard, Sherm's son, and comes to the town of Tail Holt to meet him. While in Yell Sanger's store, a crook-nosed stranger enters, sizes up the situation, and when a drunken cowboy, Jim Pender, rides in and starts shooting, protects Ruth, while Lou Howard hides. Disgusted with Lou's cowardice, Ruth calls off the elopement, and sends the stranger for her father at the gambling house across the street. There the stranger, calling himself Jeff Gray, meets Morgan Norris, a killer, Curly Connor, Kansas, Mile High, Sid Hunt, and other rustlers, and Sherm Howard. Lee Chiswick enters, with his foreman, Dan Brand, and tells Sherm Howard of his orders to shoot rustlers at sight. Jeff Gray returns to Ruth and coldly reassures her of her father's safety. At supper, Ruth introduces Jeff to her father and Brand, and in Sanger's store later she speaks cordially to Curly Connor. Coming out of the store, they are greeted by sudden gunplay, Lee is wounded, and Jeff Gray appears with a smoking revolver. Two days later, Ruth tells her father of her projected elopement and her disillusionment. Later, Ruth meets Jeff Gray, whom she thinks tried to kill her father. When he tries to hold her bridle, Ruth accidentally presses the trigger of her gun, and wounds Jeff. She takes him to Pat Sorley's camp. Talking over the shooting with Sorley, Ruth is credulous of Jeff's story of shooting at the assassin rather than at her father, and later pleads with Lee to listen to him. When Lee arrives at Pat Sorley's camp, he finds only a note to Pat from Jeff. Meanwhile, Jeff rides into Tail Holt and sends word to Sherm Howard he wants to see him.

He pulled on his boots and swiftly examined his revolver. That the weapon rested lightly in its holster so that there would be no hindrance to a quick draw he made sure. This invasion in force might or might not mean trouble. Curly had probably come with a chip on his shoulder. Norris was a killer of the worst kind. On the other hand, Sherman Howard had the reputation of doing his fighting by proxy. He might have brought Morg merely as a defensive precaution. Jeff hoped, if they did not open up with a blast of guns, to talk them out of any thought of vengeance. It would not be easy now, not with Curly all hot to rub him out.

In his throat there beat the pulse of excitement that always accompanied deadly danger. His fingers trembled.

A knock on the door sounded. Gray's nervousness vanished instantly. He said, "Come in," his drawling voice cool as ice-water.

CHAPTER V

Their host maneuvered Norris to a rocking-chair, Howard to a straight-backed one. Curly he seated at the foot of the bed. Gray stood in a shadowy corner farthest from the window. He was giving himself the best chance possible. Of the three visitors, Norris was probably the most dangerous gunman, and a rocking-chair is not the most advantageous spot for swift and accurate shooting.

"A little crowded in here, gents," Gray said lightly. "Hope you don't mind sitting on the bed, Mr. Connor. I'm short of chairs."

"Suits me," Curly answered.

Gray nodded, turned his attention to the big man. "I hated to trouble you to come here, Mr. Howard," he said apologetically, "but I have a busted leg that interferes with walking."

"I didn't mind coming. I wasn't busy." Howard's leaden opaque eyes never lifted from the stranger.

"Just reached town and I thought I'd better see you," Gray mentioned.

Slumped in the chair, the gross weight of the man overflowing, Howard reminded Gray of a prize hog.

Howard said nothing. He waited for the situation to develop. The man had a capacity for effective silence.

"Figuring I might want to stay around Tail Holt awhile," Gray went on easily.

"It's a free country." Howard's voice was suave.

"For some folks," Norris added with an insolent laugh.

Gray smiled. "My idea, too, Mr. Norris. I want to find out if I'm one of those folks."

"Last time I saw you that roan was foggin' it outa town fast," Norris taunted. "You looked like you had hurry-up business anywhere but here, Mr. Gray, if that's what you call yoreself."

"I changed my mind," Gray said.

"Why?" Howard asked bluntly.

"Got a busted leg. Shot up the other day."

"In front of the Golden Nugget?" Norris inquired, suspicion in his cold gray eyes.

"No. Out on the L C range."

"While you were gunning for Lee," Curly charged.

"No."

"That so?" Norris snarled. "Who did it? How come you out there?"

"Talk fast, fellow," Curly ordered harshly.

"Miss Ruth Chiswick did it." Gray did not look at Curly. His stone-wall gaze was on the killer Norris. "I was there on personal business of my own."

Curly ripped out an angry oath. "If you hurt Miss Ruth—"

Smoothly Howard interrupted. "Let us hear the story, Curly. Mr. Gray sent for us to tell it, don't you reckon?"

"Go ahead, Sorreltop." Norris laughed derisively. "We'll believe every word you say."

Gray told the story of his adventures in the L C territory, with careful editorial elisions. They heard it to a finish.

"That Chiswick girl is a tough proposition," Howard said, shaking his head gravely. "She'll come to a bad end, like enough."

"Nothing of the kind," retorted Curly hotly. "She's a mighty nice little lady."

"Some hot-tempered, but with the making of a fine woman in her," Gray concurred.

"She's sure a wampas cat," Norris cut in, his slurred voice a sneer.

"Leave the girl out of this," Curly snapped.

"Mr. Norris only meant she is a little lively," Gray explained.

"I can tell him what I meant, fellow, without any help from you," Norris blustered. "And I didn't bring her name into it. She was in the fairy tale this bird has been giving us."

Ignoring Norris, the crook-nosed man spoke to Howard. "I don't claim to be so law-abiding myself. Maybe I left some place in a hurry. Maybe I didn't. Thought it wasn't good manners to ask a stranger about his past."

"You can't catch a mule without an ear of corn, Mr. Gray," the big man said. "If I get you right, you are asking our help. Before we give it we have a right to know all about you."

"No objections to you staying here, Mr. Gray."

"Fine, for you," the cornered man replied. "But how about me? How do I know some fox won't write a letter and have me dragged back to—to some place I don't want to go?"

Howard looked affronted. "If a man throws in with us, we don't betray him."

"Is that a promise?" Gray asked, looking to the others for confirmation.

"Y'betcha, if we're satisfied with yore story," Curly said.

"If," Norris accented, with an ugly laugh.

Reluctantly Gray drew from his pocket the poster. Still slumped in his chair, the big-shouldered fat man read it carefully.

"So you're Clint Doke," he said.

Gray did not admit this in words. "Draw yore own conclusions," he told Howard.

"Lemme have a look at it," Curly said impatiently. He read aloud:

"Height five foot ten, age twenty-nine, weight about 158 pounds, crook nose, light red hair, gray eyes, scar on back of left hand. Will probably fight desperately before being taken."

Curly lifted his eyes and grinned at Gray. "Certainly reads like it might be you, unless you've got a twin brother the spittin' image of you, even to the scar on yore hand."

Norris reached for the poster. "The picture is sure ugly as galvanized sin," he sneered. "But it looks a heap like this guy, I'll say that. I knew all the time he was from Texas."

"Says you and these three other fellows are wanted for robbing the Texas and Southern Flyer," Curly mentioned. "Where are the other guys?"

"On the dodge, down in the Texas brush country."

"How come you not to stay there?"

"The Rangers were after me special," Gray explained. "I figured I had better light out."

Norris looked at the poster, his lip curled. "Mr. Doke is real important in Texas. Arizona sure ought to give him the glad hand."

"The name is Gray in Arizona," corrected the crook-nosed man.

"Worth two thousand on the hoof—or as meat, I reckon—down Santone way," Norris continued. "The other guys who helped rob the train only rate at five hundred apiece. But Mr. Doke—he's an honest-to-God Jesse James."

Gray ignored the jeer. "Like to correct you on one point, Mr. Norris. Two thousand on the hoof. Not a cent if shipped down in a coffin." He thought it just as well to stress this, to avoid being shot in the back.

"That's right," Norris assented. "I didn't read it careful. Well, Mr. Doke—Gray, I mean—it's a pleasure to meet up with a famous man like you."

"This is private information," the fugitive said. "I don't expect the word passed around among yore friends. I'm lying low for a while, you understand."

"It still isn't clear to me what you were doing in the Sweet Spring valley," Curly insisted. "Or why you wanted to kill Lee Chiswick."

Gray smiled. "I was in the Sweet Spring valley because I had to get out of Tail Holt in a hurry on account of Curly Connor making a target out of me," he told the black-haired man cheerfully. "Me, I was going somewhere in a hurry, and I happened to land in the L C country. About yore other question—I never have wanted to kill Chiswick."

"You just shot at him for practice," Curly suggested.

"I didn't shoot at him." Gray let his cold eyes rest on Norris. "I reckon that's not information to yore friends."

"Meaning me?" asked Norris, his eyes slitted.

"Meaning only that this has been talked over among you. Someone took a crack at Chiswick. Whoever it was, I could just see his figure in the alley, and I ripped loose at him."

"Why?" asked Howard. "Had you any chips in the game?"

"I've asked myself why often enough since," Gray replied, shaking his head. "Damfino why. Nary chip, Mr. Howard. But I had just been eating supper with him as his guest, and I reckon my notion must have been to see he got a fair break."

"But that isn't yore notion any longer, Mr. Gray?" Howard queried lightly.

"I'm not drawing a pay-check to be his bodyguard," Gray drawled.

"Is it straight goods what he says, Sherm?" Curly demanded.

"I reckon so, Curly. One of the boys got impatient and cut loose at Chiswick."

"Who?"

"I don't know who. I'm telling you only what I've heard."

"All right," Norris said. "This busted leg of his. Do we have to take it on faith?"

"It needs some attention," the wounded man replied. "Is there a doc in town?"

"No doc, but Sherm here is almost as good."

"Fine. Would you mind looking at it, Mr. Howard?" Gray asked.

Howard examined, washed, and dressed the wound. There could be no doubt it was authentic. After he had finished taking care of it, the fat man gave a decision.

"No objection to your staying here, Mr. Gray. This community doesn't aim to be hard on a man in trouble. Of course, if Lee Chiswick finds out you are here, as he is liable to do, it will be up to you to look out for yourself."

Gray said he would try to do that.

Tony Flores, one of the vaqueros, rode in to the big house with word that there had been another raid on L C stock.

"How do you know?" Lee Chiswick demanded.

"Ran across the tracks of a bunch being driven up Box canyon," the Mexican said.

"New tracks?"

"I'd say not more than a day old, senor."

"Sure they were driven—that they weren't strays?" asked Dan Brand.

Tony explained that five or six shod horses had followed the cattle.

"Too late to catch the thieves or pick up the stolen stock," Brand mourned.

"Maybe not." Lee gave curt orders. "Arm yourselves, boys. We'll take off after them. Ruth, help Frank rustle grub for us—enough for two-three days. Bob, get Pat Sorley and Buck Conrad. Cut across and meet us at the mouth of Box canyon. Tell them to bring rifles as well as six-guns. Be there inside of an hour."

Ruth gathered all the food she had cooked, had Nelly grind two packages of coffee, chose a side of bacon, added flour and corn meal, as well as salt, pepper, and sugar. The food she put in gunnysacks.

Her brother roped a pack-horse and put on a crossbuck. With a lash rope he threw a diamond hitch expertly over the supplies.

"Bring your slickers," the boss snapped. "No war-sacks. We're traveling light. You won't be sititng on your spurs any this trip. Got to hot-foot it over a cold trail."

At the entrance to Box canyon Lee found Sorley, Conrad, and his son Bob waiting for them. Sorley was sniffing over the ground like a dog looking for a scent. The old man was an expert tracker. He had been a scout in the army during the Geronimo campaigns.

The cattleman turned his horse over to Frank and strode forward to join Pat.

"What d'you find?" he asked.

"About half a dozen of 'em with a bunch of young stuff traveling lickety-split," Sorley said. "They're in one hell of a hurry, too. Here's a big long-stepping horse with outsize shoes. This one has a broken hoof. You'll be pleased to know, Lee, that the lying scut who calls himself Jeff Gray is with them. Must have ridden right over from the line-camp."

"Sure?"

"Unless he has loaned his roan to someone else. I made it my business to take particular notice of that animal while he was at the line-camp. The blacksmith who shod that roan was either short of time or nails. There's a nail shy in the shoe on the left front hoof. Take a look at this track."

Lee Chiswick studied the footmark.

"Here it is again. Begorry, I'd swear to that on a stack of Bibles. Gray's roan made it."

"Hmp! We've got him at last so he can't lie out of it. He's one of the Tail Holt rustling gang." Chiswick's salient jaw set.

"I knew he was a bad hombre first minute I clapped eyes on him," Brand said.

Lee drew Frank to one side. "Son, we're following a cold trail. Look at those clouds. It's going to rain tonight, and all tracks will be blotted out. Might as well hunt a needle in a haystack as these scoundrels. I want you to go to Tail Holt and keep your eyes open. There will be a lot of whispered talk among the rustlers there, but you won't hear any of that. What I'd like to know is who is in town and who isn't. Find out who has been away. Notice who drops in. If two or three come together, check up on that. I'm pretty sure Sherm Howard is back of these raids on our stock, though of course he doesn't do any night-riding himself."

Early Roman Writers Classified Their Dogs as Watch, Sheep, Hunting Breeds

Without doubt one of the earliest uses of a dog was to help herd the stock of his master. Early references to dogs confirm this. When you examine the works of Roman writers, observes an authority in the Chicago Tribune, you find that they divided dogs into three classifications, watchdogs, sheep dogs, and hunting dogs. It is quite likely that the conquering Romans brought these dogs into England. The Bible also gives us a sidelight on the early use of dogs for herding, as in the book of Job we read Job's reference to "those whose fathers I would have disdained to have set with dogs of my flocks."

Since dogs have helped for many centuries to tend the flocks of their masters—a practice that prevailed in many countries—it isn't surprising that today we still have a rather large number of working breeds with herding instincts and a real working background. The Belgian sheep dog, Bouvier des Flandres, collie, Old English sheep dog, and others are in this group.

The border collie found herding sheep on the moors of Scotland and elsewhere in the British isles varies considerably in type. For example, there are long-haired, short-haired, and bearded border collies. The long-haired is the most popular.

Here in America the biggest advancement in making the breed better has been during the last ten or twelve years. The source of most of the promotion of the breed has come from New England, where there are quite a few of the dogs being used on sheep farms. It was in New England that the first American sheep dog trials for the breed were held.

Value of Eggs as Food

Eggs are one of the best sources of fat, proteins, minerals and vitamins. The egg yolk is high in fats, containing six fatty acids and the white contains four different types of protein. Several vitamins are found in eggs. It is well supplied with vitamin A, is a good source of vitamin D, and also contains the anti-sterility vitamin E as well as vitamin G.

WHAT to EAT and WHY

C. Houston Goudiss Noted Food Authority

Relates the Miracle of VITAMINS and Explains Why YOU MUST EAT THEM or DIE

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS
6 East 39th St., New York.

WE LIVE in the most inspiring age the world has ever known. Chemists grow plants without soil. Doctors snatch men from death with insulin. Surgeons perform incredibly delicate brain operations. And thanks to the amazing discoveries of nutritional scientists, children enter the world with far better chances for long and happy lives, while men and women of seventy are more active and useful than their grandparents were at fifty.

Much of the hard-won knowledge of how to eat so as to increase efficiency, curb disease, and improve the chances for longevity is due to the discovery of vitamins.

• • •

VITAMINS DISCOVERED

Twenty-six years ago, a now-famous scientist walked nervously around his laboratory, back and forth—back and forth. He was conducting a nutrition experiment of vast importance. He didn't quite know what he was going to find, but he believed that he was on the verge of a revolutionary food discovery.

The scientist was my friend, Casimir Funk, a brilliant Polish bio-chemist. He had been working on the problem for many years. At last, in the year 1912, his experiments were positive and conclusive. Then he announced to the scientific world that he had discovered a vital force. "This force," said Funk, "I have called vitamine, because it is necessary to life."

Thus, the word "vitamin" came into being, along with the first knowledge of these minute but powerful factors which exert such a tremendous influence on human health and happiness.

• • •

SPARK PLUGS OF NUTRITION

Other bio-chemists throughout the world—including Sir Frederick Gowland Hopkins in England, and Hart, Humphrey, Babcock, Steenbock and McCollum in the United States—had been working on the same problem that Funk had partially solved. They knew that the first step was to find out how vitamins affected the human body, and that the second step was to discover what foods contained these vital substances.

And so there began a long series of experiments in the laboratories of great universities all over the world, which demonstrated what happens when a diet is deficient in any of the vitamins, and proved that if laboratory animals are wholly deprived of vitamins for a short time they will die.

These experiments are of the utmost significance to every homemaker, because the same thing happens to human beings as to experimental animals. Today our knowledge of vitamins has progressed to such a degree that it is possible to state the exact requirement for most of the vitamins and to designate the foods from which adequate quantities can be obtained.

• • •

RESISTANCE AND VITAMIN A

To date, six vitamins have been identified. Vitamin A promotes growth and builds resistance to disease. It is necessary for the health of the mucous membranes of the body and helps to guard against infections of the respiratory and alimentary tracts. It influences the health of the hair and skin, is necessary to prevent a serious eye disorder known as night blindness, and is essential for the formation of healthy teeth.

Vitamin A is found in milk, butter, margarine that has been reinforced with vitamin A concentrate, egg yolk, cod-liver oil, thin green leaves and yellow fruits and vegetables such as carrots, sweet potatoes, apricots and bananas.

• • •

APPETITE AND VITAMIN B

Vitamin B promotes appetite, aids digestion, prevents a serious nerve disorder. It is essential to the maintenance of a good digestion, which is vitally important if the body is to obtain full benefit from the food consumed. This vitamin is closely related to the energy metabolism, and the requirement increases with the rate of growth and with increased energy expenditure, so that growing children and working men and women should receive very generous amounts.

Vitamin B is found in yeast, whole wheat cereals, oatmeal, milk, fresh and dried peas and beans, spinach, cabbage and other greens, egg yolk and liver.

• • •

VITAMIN C FOR TEETH, GUMS

Vitamin C plays an important part in regulating body processes, and prevents the dread disease of scurvy. A lack of this essential vitamin results in profound changes in the structure of the teeth and gums, may be responsible for hemorrhages occurring anywhere in the body, and for the degeneration of muscle fibers generally.

Vitamin C is most abundant in succulent fresh green leaves, such as green cabbage. It is also found in onions, potatoes, oranges, tomatoes, green peppers, bananas and strawberries. In most foods, it is easily destroyed by heat—that is why it is so important to include some fresh raw foods in the diet daily.

• • •

VITAMIN D AND RICKETS

Vitamin D is sometimes called the sunshine vitamin because it can be manufactured in the body through the action of direct sunlight on the skin. This is the vitamin that is necessary for the proper utilization of calcium and phosphorus in building bones and teeth. When it is lacking in the diet of infants, there develops that horrible disease known as rickets, in which the bones become soft and twisted, resulting in pitiful deformities — knock knees, bow legs, pigeon breast.

In foods, vitamin D is only found in appreciable amounts in fish-liver oils and egg yolk. That is why every homemaker should be so grateful to the scientists who labored to discover how to concentrate this precious vitamin from fish-liver oils and add it to foods, or to increase the vitamin D content of foods through irradiation.

• • •

ANTI-STERILITY VITAMIN E

Vitamin E comes in for less discussion than the others, because its significance to nutrition has not been fully determined. It does, however, appear to be necessary for successful reproduction and is found especially in wheat germ and lettuce.

• • •

VITAMIN G PROLONGS YOUTH

Vitamin G is necessary for growth and for the maintenance of health and vigor at all ages. It helps to ward off old age by prolonging the vigorous middle years. It is essential to the health of the skin, and recent experiments demonstrate that cataracts in the eyes may be due to a deficiency of this vitamin, which is found in yeast, and in liver, kidneys, egg yolk, milk, cheese and green leafy vegetables.

One authority claims that chronic disorders of the throat, stomach, lungs, colon, heart and kidneys may be traced to vitamin and mineral deficiencies.

Certainly enough has been learned of vitamin chemistry to make clear that the homemaker fails in her duty who does not provide vitamins in abundance for every member of her family. Both children and adults depend upon you for their food supply. It lies within your power to help them to health and happiness or condemn them to weakness, illness and sorrow. Do not fail them. See to it that every member of your household—your children, the wage earners, the middle aged and the elderly—get enough vitamins to afford them the health that science has placed within their grasp.

Building, Maintaining Family Health

IN THE C. Houston Goudiss articles that have appeared weekly in this newspaper previous to this one, the nationally known food authority has described FOOD, as it provides the key to mental and physical power; PROTEINS, the foods you cannot live without; CARBOHYDRATES and FATS, foods that provide motive power for the body machinery; and MINERAL SALTS, that you must have in order to build strong bones, healthy nerves and rich, red blood.

These subjects have been treated in an interesting and understandable manner, free of scientific terms, principally offering advice to the housewife that will aid her in the problem of feeding the members of her family such foods as will build and maintain their health.

Every one of these articles has a definite place in your scrapbook for future reference. If you have missed any of these discussions, the publisher of this newspaper will supply them upon your request. If you have not already done so, start a department of these informative articles in your scrapbook at once!

What Is the Cause of "Spider-Web Check"?

If not properly "fed" with a good oil polish, furniture in time develops what is known as "spider-web check!" This appears on the finish, like wrinkles on the human face—fine lines, spreading here and there in a spider-web pattern. This crazing, this light cracking, is known in furniture language as "checking" and "spider-web checking" better describes the condition. This is the danger-signal, on finish! It's the indication of "starving" wood! A warning to the housewife, that if the finish is not cared for immediately and properly, the furniture will develop cracks, ridges and splits. "Spider-web check" is generally the result of either one of these two causes: Polish-neglect—or the use of a poor, cheap polish—without the essential fine, light-oil base. When the furniture is periodically "massaged" with a reputable oil polish (the best is non-greasy), the pores of the wood are "fed" and the piece is preserved. Then "spider-web check" will not appear! The use of a quality oil polish is the best preventive formula for this ugly, detrimental check!

MORE WOMEN USE O-CEDAR POLISH THAN ANY OTHER KIND!

...because O-Cedar not only cleans as it polishes, but preserves your furniture—"feeds" the finish, prevents drying-out, cracking. Insist upon O-Cedar Polish, for furniture, woodwork and floors (with the famous O-Cedar Mop).

Snow-Bound Horse Rescued
Nevada City.—The horse of Stephen Mattilda, rural mail operator, which had been marooned in the snow near Graniteville for six weeks after it broke away from the mailman's sleigh, at last has been rescued. The horse had trampled the snow nearly to the ground, leaving a wall nine feet high and forming a corral of snow "half the size of a city block." During the time the horse was "snowed in" its owner packed a bale of hay to it every two days. Several hours of hard work and the efforts of two other horses were required to pull dobbin from the hole.

Sales Tax on Foods Urged
Sacramento.—Fred E. Stewart, member of the State Board of Equalization, advocated the restoration of the State sales tax on food to enable the State to take over all county old-age pension payments. The sales tax levy on food was eliminated by the Legislature, although restaurant meals still are taxed. Stewart estimated the restoration of the sales tax on food would bring in an additional $18,000,000 annually.

Girl Gets Life in Prison
Los Angeles.—Jeanne M. Kelly, a buxom 20-year-old San Francisco high school girl, will spend the rest of her life in prison for robbery and kidnaping. Her participation in the kidnaping was inadvertent. The girl, with two men companions, took a car last New Year's eve, according to testimony, to drive to San Francisco. The trio were unaware that the owner of the car, Joe Pearson, was asleep in the back seat. When he awoke after several miles and protested the kidnaping, Pearson testified, he was robbed of $5 and thrown out of the car. The three were tried in Superior Court without a jury.

Stranger Throws Away Gold Pieces
San Francisco.—A near riot resulted when a roughly dressed stranger tossed two handsful of $20 gold pieces into a throng of 750 longshoremen, warehousemen and sailors along the waterfront. The maritime workers emerged from the fracas with black eyes, scratches and torn clothing, but some of them held gold pieces which apparently are genuine. The mysterious donor disappeared as soon as he threw the money away.

Thirteen Escape in Tunnel Collapse
Eureka.—Thirteen men narrowly escaped death when a 2,242 foot tunnel of the Northwestern Pacific railroad, 20 miles south of here, collapsed. The men, who were making repairs in the tunnel at the time, fled as timbers began cracking and earth and rocks rumbled in an avalanche, apparently caused by heavy rains. A train, which would have been trapped in the tunnel had its schedule not been slowed down just prior to the collapse, safely was flagged to a halt.

California Farmers Paid $4,454,562
The Agricultural Adjustment Administration announced payments to farmers in California under the 1936 agricultural conservation program totaled $4,454,562 up to November 30, 1937. Payments throughout the country, including administrative costs, totaled $398,230,333.

Winery Census

Find Body of Lost Boy
The body of 4-year-old Teddy Thompson, who disappeared from his mountain home near Covelo, Mendocino County, last January 29, was found last week by Arthur Carpenter, a stockman. After wandering away from his home, the boy apparently sought shelter beneath a manzanita bush but froze to death in the heavy snow.

Floods Reduce Peach Crop
Because many orchards were damaged by floods, California's 1938 peach crop will fall short of the 1937 yield, growers reported. At a meeting held in Berkeley under the auspices of the California Farm Bureau Federation, the growers asked retail grocers to launch an advertising campaign to clear their stocks of 1937 canned and dried peaches to make way for the new crop.

Field Mice Attack Citrus Trees
Field mice, which did extensive damage to groves in the Porterville district several years ago, again are at work. Several growers, examining their trees after weeks of rainy weather, found the pests had cut the bark from large areas about the roots, even girdling some of the trees. A serious infestation can result in extensive losses, since the rodents gnaw off the bark just at the ground level, as well as off the roots. Raking grass and leaves from under the trees will curb the damage by destroying the nests.

Two Counties Lead in Wine
Two counties—Fresno and San Joaquin—produced nearly half of the wine manufactured in California during 1937. Figures released by the Wine Institute show that out of the State's record production of 91,423,021 gallons of sweet and dry wines, 21,528,468 gallons were manufactured in Fresno County and 20,219,228 gallons in San Joaquin. Of the State's total production, 57,780,269 gallons were of sweet wines, 10,138,442 dry white wines and 23,504,310 dry red. Sonoma and Tulare Counties followed Fresno and San Joaquin to comprise the quartet of leading wine producing counties in the State. Sonoma's total was 9,694,704 gallons and Tulare's 8,093,260.

Moisture Hampers Barley Crop
Wet weather delayed barley planting this year to such an extent that acreage is expected to total less than 1,000,000 acres in California for the first time in several years. Thus far Sacramento Valley barley growers, who produce the great part of the State high income malting barley, have been able to seed only about two-thirds of the intended area. The best planting period for malting barley has passed. Some growers are planning to seed faster growing Mariout barley in fields that have been too wet to plow. Others will turn to rice, beans and grain sorghums, which can be planted later.

Approximately $50,000 in purses will be offered in the 1938 racing program at the California State Fair. The sum represents a $10,000 increase.

Aerial Survey for Ten Counties
The Laval Company of Fresno will make an aerial survey of ten counties of California for the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. The federal agency notified the company its bid of $18,748.70 was the lowest received. Counties to be surveyed are Tehama, Glenn, Placer, San Luis Obispo, Ventura, Los Angeles, Oranges, San Bernardino, Riverside and San Diego. The Laval Company last year completed a similar survey of Northern California.

Art Work Helps in the Building Up of Mental Health

By MARJORIE VAN DE WATER

New York.—Paintings of modern schools of art and those by the mentally deranged are likely to be repulsive to many judging their aesthetic merit.

But such artistic presentations have their value nevertheless. To the psychiatrist, for example, the aesthetic qualities of a painting may be of least importance.

The physician of sick minds has come to realize that through the medium of brush and canvas, a tortured soul can find release for his emotions, a lessening of tensions and anxieties and a bridge for the unreal realm of his imaginings to reality.

And a naughty boy who draws in the back of his geography a caricature of his stern teacher lets off steam which otherwise might result in an emotional explosion.

Children treated by psychiatrists for emotional disorders are encouraged to make such drawings of teacher and parent, because they not only relieve their minds but also reveal to the psychiatrist the youngsters' individual worries and suppressed troubles.

Size, Design and Color.

Dr. Edward Liss, New York physician, tells in the American Journal of Orthopsychiatry what the psychiatrist looks for as significant in the paintings of children and adults.

In the first place, size is significant as revealing inner attitudes. It is related to the individual's evaluation of his own ego.

Next the design or pattern is important. Good technique in all kinds of art is the result of a certain balance between natural impulses and certain censoring agents which tend to bring them within approved limits or patterns. The more fixed the pattern, the more geometric the designs, the greater are the repressions within the individual.

Color choice is important. Brown and black, for example, are associated particularly with deep unconscious components of a depressive nature, Dr. Liss has found.

Finally the finished work is interpreted in much the same way that dreams are analyzed. Preference for some subjects and evasion of others indicates to the trained student the emotional impasses and fixation points of the artist.

Supercharging Diesels Brings Gains in Power

Washington. — Supercharging of giant Diesel engines on motorships at sea offers two benefits for marine commerce and naval vessels, said E. D. Newell of the bureau of engineering, Navy department, in an address here at a joint meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and the Society of Automotive Engineers.

In naval ships, Mr. Newell indicated, supercharging enables the same engines to turn out valuable extra power for special short time operation in emergencies. In commercial marine installation, supercharging permits a motorship to use smaller engines, thus having more cargo space but obtaining the same speed. Or the cargo space can be retained and speed increased.

By supercharging Diesel engines on the new streamlined railroad trains, additional power gains have been achieved which, in one case have amounted to 50 per cent power increase for continuous operation.

Mr. Newell reviewed the use of supercharging in Diesel engines for aircraft and pointed out that such supercharging not only permits greater power for the size and weight of engine but makes possible engine performance at higher altitudes where the air is rarefied.

Fire Ants Destroy Quail in Southeastern States

Baltimore.—Enemies of quail are usually thought of in terms of foxes, rats, occasionally owls. But in the quail territory of the Southeast a species of ant, the fire ant, has to be taken into the reckoning as an important cause of quail life destruction, reported Bernard V. Travis of the bureau of entomology and plant quarantine, United States Department of Agriculture, speaking here before the annual North American Wildlife conference.

These ferocious swarming insects attack the eggs as soon as they have been pipped, or the newly hatched quail chicks while they are still helpless. The voracious insects kill from 4 to 16 per cent of the quail hatch each year. They are also serious enemies of citrus fruit trees.

It is very difficult to combat these ants. They detect even small concentrations of poison in baits, and fumigants are costly. Dry sodium cyanide seems most promising.

"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" This question is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon on Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

A Scriptural selection in the Lesson-Sermon includes the verses from Matthew: "And, behold, a woman, which was diseased with an issue of blood twelve years, came behind him, and touched the hem of his garment: For she said within herself, If I may but touch his garment, I shall be whole. But Jesus turned him about, and when he saw her, he said, Daughter, be of good comfort; thy faith hath made thee whole. And the woman was made whole from that hour."

One of the correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, presents the statements: "The Principle and proof of Christianity are discerned by spiritual sense. They are set forth in Jesus' demonstrations, which show —by his healing the sick, casting out evils, and destroying death, 'the last enemy that shall be destroyed,'—his disregard of matter and its so-called laws."

TRICK ROPER

Our old friend, Wae West, Champion trick rope artist of yesteryears was an interested spectator at the rodeo trials last Sunday. Ths noted rider may perform for the coming rodeo if his farm in El Centro does not keep him to busily occupied.

Mr. West took a little time off from watching the practice to teach four local girls the trick of sinning a rope. The girls were Jane Phillips, Ada and Elsie Fortner and Rose Emberly. They are learning to spin a rope in order that they may perform as they march in front of the band, in the Rodeo and Round UP Parade.

A CHARMING basque frock for growing girls, and a housedress for large figures, both smart and becoming, both easy to make. Even if you've done very little sewing, these patterns are easy to follow. Each one is accompanied by a complete and detailed sew chart. And a tour through the shops will show you irresistible new fabrics to make them up in.

Basque Dress for Girls.

No wonder girls love a basque dress like this! The fitted waist with its basque point in front gives them such a grown-up feeling. The full skirt, square neckline and puff sleeves are so becoming. Make this dress up for your daughter in taffeta or silk crepe in time for Easter, and later on in printed percale or dimity.

Large Women's Dress.

The diagram shows you how easy this dress is to make, and it fits to perfection. Notice the raglan shoulder line, the waistline snugged in by darts. The roll collar, with the smart little tab in front, is very soft and becoming. Very comfortable to work round the house in, this dress is sufficiently tailored so that you can go shopping in it, too. Make it up in percale, gingham, broadcloth or tub silk.

The Patterns.

1491 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8 requires 2⅛ yards of 39-inch material, plus 1¼ yards of bias fold to finish the neckline and sleeves.

1395 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 3⅜ yards of 39-inch material. For contrasting collar, ⅝ yard, cut bias.

Why Does a Chicken Cross the Road?

WE are willing to pay one hundred dollars cash money for the best answer to the above question. "Why does a chicken cross the road?" has been a baffling question for years. For the person who gives us the best answer we will pay fifty dollars and to the second best author of a reason, twenty-five dollars, and the next five in line will receive five dollars each.

It is a lot of fun. No matter how crazy or sane your answer may be, you have an equal chance if it is good. The decision of the judges will be final. If in the opinion of the judges there is a tie, equal prizes will be paid to the tied contestants.

A Step Ahead

BY DON

Rolling along the highway at the rate of anything from twenty five miles an hour up, but few seconds are given over to the thought of cost or wonder of it all, most of our ride is simply a matter of routine transportation or pleasure. But once in a while the car breaks down.

Not so long ago, our old car, that has served us well for a number of years, which we have fondly named "Forty Horses", took on all the characteristics of forty mules and a couple of Imps. For no apparent reason, according to the perplexed frowns and harsher words of various mechanics, the old rattler would condescend to run only upon whatever occasion seemed to please it and, then, only long enough o carry its owner into some isolated area, where, with a sigh, it would sleep for hours on end.

Words, unprintable here, which in the past had served to frighten Forty Horses into a vertible stampede along the highway, fell now upon deaf ears, so, we were forced to spend two nights in a row nursing, pushing, cranking and scratching our head over the strange antics of our mechanical steed. Finally, a man was found who located the trouble and sent us rejoicing upon our way.

Now, for a short time as it is with all humans, we shall be deeply appreciative of the luxury of modern transportation, but more than that, we shall also bear in mind the not significant cost of the same.

During the period of diagnosing the peculiar ailment of Forty Horses, one of the attendent mechanical physicans gave out from his store of car knowledge and transportation, the fact, so he claimed, that even a car such as ours would cost at least 4.6 cents per mile to operate. To this information we must credit that extra worry line in our all ready furrowed brow.

As we travel tensely along the boulevard, we are continually pestered with a ridiculous illusion of throwing a bright new five cent piece at each milestone we pass. Perhaps, we should keep all this joy killing information to ourself. Certainly, we may expect to reap no great applause from car manufacturers who go to great length in stressing the economy in such transportation. However, it may be well that both sides of the story should be told.

Let it be said, though, in fairness to all, we would not trade our iron horses for the flesh and blood variety as a means of getting from one place to another. In this day and age, we could not of we wanted to do so, and expect to remain in the race for the illusive bread and butter. So, after all it is undoubtedly true that ol Forty Horses moe than returns the cost of her upkeep.

And another thing, we who enjoy living in rural districts would most certainly be denied that privilege of it were not for the rapid and easeful transportation accomplished by cars. Five cents a mile or ten cents a mile, if a car can bring to an individual or family more pleasure in a life not too easy on any of us, then, say we, it's worth it.

Lazy

The hardest job I've ever had
Is making up a song,
When every thing I try to do
Insists on going wrong.

There isn't much a man can do
When things don't come his way,
But plug along and wish for luck
To come some other day.

And, so I guess, I'll just sit down
And see what luck will bring;
And ease that lazy kind of way
That gets me in the Spring.

RECEIVES LETTER FROM MANILA

This week we are printing the second letter recently received by Mrs. E. L. Mallory from Mr. C .A. Ver Plank who has now left Olongapo; a sea port in the Phillipine Islands and who is now on his way to Manila.

The letter dated February 5th we believe will be of greater interest to our readers than the preceding one.

Early this morning the Fourteenth Division of Destroyers left from alongside the Black Hawk and departed immediately for Manilla. There they will remain until the latter part of the month when they will up anchor and head north for China. I suspect that the climate in Shanghai and Tsingtao at this particular time of the year is extremely cold, so the change from this tropical heat to the cold winter blasts is going to be difficult to take, at least for awhile. Well, who knows but we will be folowing the some detail within the next few months. If we follow the usual schedule we will be leaving for China around the middle of April.

Sightseeing around Subic Bay in 'bancas', is a thrill never to be forgotten. A 'banca' is a small boat something on the order of a canoe with the exception that they have bamboo poles fastened on either side to keep them from capsizing. There are two fresh water rivers emptying into Subic Bay and a 'banca' trip up one of these rivers is well worth while.

On entering the river the first thing one notices is small picturesque bamboo huts with grass roofs. These huts are built on stilts usually between five and ten feet above the ground. There are several reasons for this. Pigs and chickens are kept under the house, but perhaps the main reason is that during the rainy season, which is quite severe in the tropics, their homes would be washed away if it were not for these stilts.

On up the river it is not in the least unusual to come upon small tribes of Igorrotes, a semi civilized native of the island, small in stature, the biggest of them being not over four feet tall. They seem quite unconcerned at the presence of white men and if one doesn't become too curious they will allow you to roam about their villages on tours of exploration. Their dress is very simple, the men wearing only a small cloth wrapped about their loins and the women a skirt both being bare from the waist up. They make their living by fishing and huntng with spear, bow and arrow. The rivers are excellent for swimming and a great deal of time can be passed in this way. After a trip up one of these rivers and a sail around the bay the day s well spent, and an adventure completed that is never to be forgotten.

In a couple of days the Black Hawk will be going into the famous Dewey Dry Dock to have her bottom cleaned and painted. Dry Docking is one annual occurrence for the Black Hawk that is seldom looked forward to wth any great degree of eagerness. It means hard work for all hands, but necessary work if the sides and bottom are to be kept free from marine growth. The Dry Docking period usually lasts three or four days, and then all is in readiness for another year.

B. A. SWEET DISCUSSES TAXES FOR BENEFIT OF ENTIRE COUNTY

Taxes—That word we all dread but regarding which we know plenty about.

On April 20th the last half of our 1938 county taxes is delinquent. On or about this date most of us feel disgusted with governmentin general. We feel that our tax bill is entirely too high for the service rendered and we are confronted with the full knowledge that the bill has been rising at an alarming rate.

There's no one in San Diego county who feels more keenly than I this increase—yet to get a reduction in rates that would satisfy all taxpayers seems quite remote.

There are 287,311 parcels of property in the County of San Diego all of which are expected to pay taxes. However, this is not the case. There are 42,079 parcels out of the total that have been sold to the State of California up to and including 1930. Since 1930 and up to the present time there are about 40,000 more parcels that have been sold to the State. This makes a grand total of over 80,000 parcels that are off the tax rolls that are not paying current taxes.

All of the 42,079 pieces are subject to sale at the present time. The Board of Supervisors have adopted a policy of accepting any offer on this property that amounts to the taxes due. Bids for property must be made to Sam Claggett, Tax Colelctor. There are thousands of parcels that are real bargains. None of the property delinquent after 1930 is subject to sale as the State Moratorium is in effect until January 1939.

We hear much about pyramiding Mattoon taxes but all taxes are being pyramided. It has been estimated that the total 80,000 pieces of property (that are now off the tax rolls) has an assessed valuation of approximately $15,000,000. This total—at the current county and school rates which will average about $3.50—amounts to $525,000 per year. This deficiency is pyramided on the balance of the taxpayers that are still paying.

In short, about 200,000 pieces of property are paying the bill for 287,311 pieces. This is pyramiding the name as Mattoon taxes are pyramided but of course not to as great an extent.

When one studies the foregoing facts and then writes his check on April 20th for the last half of the current tax bill I thnk there is a question that comes to all—How long will it be before a majority of the remaining 200,000 property owners will be unable to pay? I have wondered too.

DEDICATORY EXERCISES TO COMMEMORATE PARENT AVACADO TREE

Ambassador Josephus Daniels will take part in the dedicatory exercises, commemorating the parent avocado tree, at Atlixco, Mex. April 17. The ceremonies are part of a special avocado tour to Mexico under the joint auspices of the California Avocado Association and the state wide avocado committee of the California Farm Bureau Federation.

The tour will start from Los Angeles April 8 and already arrangements have been made by San Diego agriculturists to make the tour.

From the parent tree, now growing at Atlixco, budwood was first sent to California in 1911, founding California's avocado industry.

The Southern Pacific Railway, the National Railways of Mexico and the Southern California Tourist Bureau are cooperating in the interesting tour. Further details can be had from the San Diego County Farm Bureau Chamber of Commerce Building, San Diego.

CALIFORNIA LEADS ALL OTHER STATES

California led all other states in the number of cows tested by standard cow testing associations during the year 1937, it was revealed this week in figures compiled by Fred W. Dorman, assistant farm advisor in charge of livestock activities. The figures showed that there was a percentage of 12.9 cows under test in California during the 1937 period.

These cows were in the regular cow testing associations maintained under the supervision of the agricultural extension service, Mr. Dorman stated. An interesting highlight of the figures was the record shown for San Diego County. In the county a total of 29.6 per cent of dairy cows were under test in 1937 by the Cow Testing Association, operated by the San Diego County Farm Bureau in cooperation with the Agricultural Extension Service.

CROWELL D. EDDY DISCUSSES TAX EMPTION

It is to the advantage of both the county and veterans owning property in the county and who are entitled to exemption, for them to get their application for exemption in promptly and with each detail of their statement completely and accurately made. The legal requirements for granting exemptions are well defined and the Assessor must administer them strictly.

Only citizens of California who have served in time of war, or their widows, (or if no widow, a widowed mother), are eligible. If the veteran or his wife owns more than $5000 worth of property, no exemption can be granted.

Proof of service, and if discharged from service, an honorable discharge, must be presented at the Assessor's office to establish eligibility. After this proof has once been accepted by the Assessor and record made, it is only necessary each year for the veteran to make his statement to the deputy either at the office or in the home or place of business when the deputy calls. However, application for exemption must be made each year, as the Statue specifies that failure to make application each year shall be deemed a waiver for that year.

Two changes were made in thevet eran's exemption law by the last regular session of the legislature. Onemakes it possible for the wife, guardian or legal representative to make the statement if the person entitled to exemption is insane or mentaly incompetent.

The other fixes the dates for filing for exemption each year between noon on the first Monday in March and five o'clock p. m. on the last Monday in June. The final date for filing was formerly the first Monday in July.

It is always desirable for veterans to file as early after the opening date as possible to avoid possible mistakes that can occur in a last minute rush. The change of the final date of filing gives the Assessor's office a week to check up on all records before the roll is turned over to the Auditor.

EASTER GREETING CARDS

Post Office employees are anticipating a busy time next week, the last week before Easter, which comes on April 17th.

It has become a national custom to send Easter Greeting cards to such an extent that the post card business at Eastertime ranks second to that of Christmas.

Many are the folks and friends "back home" who will receive joyous Easter messages, or boxes of flowers, from Lakeside people

Beautiful Easter cards may be bought locally. Flower cards, typical of California are being used, and fine views of Lakeside itself are now on sale. Government postals also have room for a large sized Easter message.

The following post card rates are submitted by the local office.

1. Easter post cards, uninclosed, should have one cent postage. Writing permissible on back of card, and on left half of address side.

2. Cards enclosed in, unsealed envelopes, with no further message than "Easter Greetings" "To—from —," require one and one half cent postage.

3. Cards sealed in envelopes, or cards in unsealed envelopes with written message, requires 3 cents each. And, as at Christmas time, the request is to mail your cards early."

Corkey's Beauty Hints---

Easter!—That means a new dress or suit—smart shoes and a sparkling new hat. What about your hair? Unless it is dressed in the latest fashion your new outfit, and especially your Easter Bonnet won't be displayed to the best advantage.

The new coiffure lines are so flattering—They swirl up at the sides and back, then dash down again at the forehead into an intriguing "bouquet" of curls, a coy banglet or sometimes a wave with a surprising twist. I have a special style in mind that I know will suit you to a "T"!

Why not come in and try it? Come in and look at my new "Modern Beauty" book of 50 new coiffures. Let me help you select the style best suited for your type and personality.

There's the "School Girl" and the "Business Girl" types and the "Modern Mothers" and the "Symphony in Silver", for the modern grandmothers, and many others.
